

Judgmentalism

1. The author suggests that judgmentalism is one of the most subtle of our respectable sins. On what basis does he make this statement? P. 141
2. When there are multiple opinions about an action or conviction, how do we become judgmental of other's actions or opinions? P. 141
3. In matters of worship, how are we often judgmental? P. 142
4. What is the difference between a "preference" and a "conviction"? Are our preferences and convictions always right? What does the author suggest happens with our preferences or convictions? P.142
5. What scripture does the author use to demonstrate the error of judgmentalism? Where there is no clear biblical command, what does the author suggest that we are trying to do when we judge others? P.144
6. What are some areas in our lives where we should practice temperance and/or abstinence? P. 144
7. When might we rightfully be judgmental? What should be our attitude in these cases? P.145
8. In some areas of the Christian life, the author suggests that we are uncomfortable with ambiguity. How does Romans 14:5 fit into this area? With what kind of attitude should we hold to our convictions? P.148